

Chapter 15

1. A lady purchased an automatic coffeemaker that she had seen on display in a store. She assembled it according to the instructions. She used it properly, again according to the instructions. She noticed that water was very slow going into the upper bowl, or sometimes the water didn't go in the upper bowl at all. The next time she used it, the coffeemaker exploded in her face and severely injured her. Should she recover from the seller of the coffeemaker? McCabe v. Liggett Drug Co., 112 N.E.2d 254 (MA).
