

Surprise Meal for Someone Special

Directions Cooking a surprise meal is a wonderful way to say “thank you” to an adult who is important in your life. You could make a birthday, or even an ordinary day, special. Do not worry that the adult is a better cook than you are. The fact that you cared and did your best will be appreciated. What adult in your life could you treat with a meal? Choose one and then answer the questions below.

1. Would you make breakfast, lunch, supper, or a snack? _____

2. How complicated or simple would you want the meal to be? Why? _____

3. How familiar or new and different would you want the meal to be, and why?

4. Write a menu for the surprise meal you would prepare. _____

5. What decorations would you use, if any? _____

6. Would cooking with a brother, sister, or friend make the job harder or easier? Why?

7. How do you imagine the adult would react to your surprise? _____
