

Chapter 17 Retirement and Estate Planning

College and Career Readiness: Decision Making

Directions To make good decisions, it is important to make connections between information and arguments and to consider various points of view. It is also important to evaluate your decision after you have made it. Think of a time you had to make a big decision. Answer the questions below to walk through the decision-making process.

What is the decision that needs to be made?

What are the reasons for and against it?

What are the alternative courses of action?

Name _____ Date _____ Class _____

What course of action did you decide to take?

After you made your decision and implemented it how did it work out? Do you think you made a good decision?
